

It depends on the bank, currency, amount and type of your bank account. The basic principle is that the bank offers interest on your savings, which is always related to the different rates of exchange, such as the London Interbank Offered Rate deposits (LIBOR).

LIBOR - a daily reference rate based on interest rates at which banks offer to lend unsecured funds to other banks in the London Interbank Currency Exchange. How can you maximize your returns on offshore accounts?

First of all you must choose the best jurisdiction in terms of low taxation, bank account type, which is most suitable for your circumstances. You should always take into account several important considerations: tax issues, reliability, confidentiality and the greatest return on your investment. It is advisable that you consult with an expert on taxation and investment that can give you advice and help in the selection of options in different countries, but not limited proposal related to one specific country.